Problem

- Repeated active listening is important to improving as a musician!
- As with any skill, efficient progress-monitoring is crucial to development.
 Unfortunately, there aren't any free widely available software to help learning and practicing musicians.

Our Solution

Rekora is a website that allows users to record themselves playing a song, write notes and comments on their performance, and keep track of their progress in a practice log.

Key Features

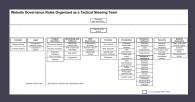

Record and listen to yourself!

Our website allows you to record yourself practicing a song and listen to your recording as many times as you need!

Create time stamped notes!

Time stamp the exact time that your notes are referring to for easy organization of notes

View practice history!

Monitor the progress of your practice by viewing all of your recordings and notes in your song's journal.

Future Features

Tuner and Metronome!

Improve your practice with the use of the metronome and tuner!

Sharing function!

Share your recordings and progress with other users of our website!

Turn it into an app!

Be able to take Rekora anywhere using our mobile app!
